

CINIA cMATRIX

DIRECT CONNECTION TO PUBLIC CLOUD SERVICES

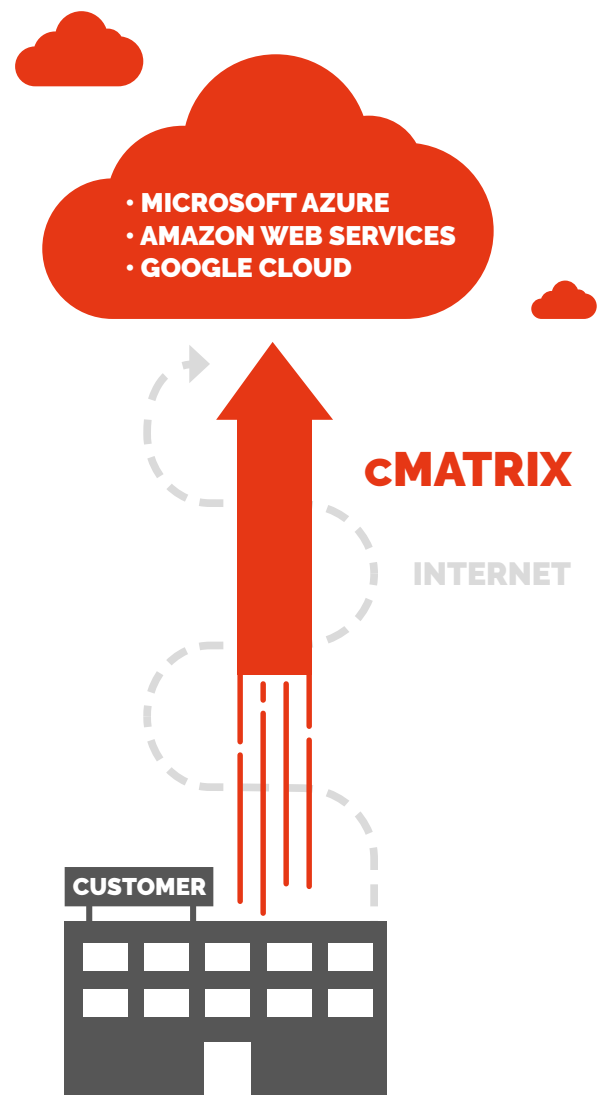

Fast, secure and reliable connections are key factors in determining the quality and availability of cloud services.

Cinia cMatrix enables a separate, data secure connection to public cloud services, independent of the Internet. Unlike connections made through the Internet, the cMatrix service also includes monitored end-to-end connections and a service level guarantee.

The service utilises Cinia's high-speed and geographically direct submarine cable from Finland to data centres in Central Europe, enabling low-latency connections. cMatrix provides you with direct, Internet-independent customer-specific connections to the European locations of providers of cloud services: Stockholm, Frankfurt, Amsterdam, London, Dublin.

The cloud services currently available through the cMatrix service are Amazon Web Services (AWS), Microsoft Azure, Google Cloud, IBM Cloud, Oracle and Alibaba Cloud. It is also possible to link several cloud service providers through a single physical cMatrix connection. Furthermore, the same connection can be used for accessing local private cloud services in Finland.

Cinia cMatrix in a nutshell

- ▶ Access connection between the customer's network or location and public cloud services, redundant when necessary
- ▶ Virtual cMatrix connections at different speeds (starting from 50 Mbps to several Gigabytes) to the locations of cloud service providers in Europe: Stockholm, Frankfurt, Amsterdam, London, Dublin
- ▶ Unlimited data transfers
- ▶ Service view and reporting (SLA)
- ▶ It is also possible to link several service providers through a single physical connection

cMatrix's independence from the Internet allows

- ▶ Higher data security and service level than the public network
- ▶ Smaller delays, consistent quality and faster connections
- ▶ Flexible connections, monitored and controlled end-to-end, combining cost efficiency and the service level guarantee provided by connections of consistent quality

Interested? Ask for more details!

Atte Sipilä
Sales Manager, Cloud Connectivity Services
atte.sipila@cinia.fi
+358 40 512 4773
cinia.fi/cMatrix